ARMY FLIERS DIE IN CRASH DURING STORM

Officers, 2 Enlisted Men Killed in Smashup Near Windsor.

By The Associated Press

WINDSOR, Ont., May 20 — Three Army Air Force officers and two enlisted men were killed to their deaths in a rain-soaked wheat field near here last night when their twin-engined C-45 Army transport plane went down during a severe electrical storm.

Bits of the plane, together with two partially opened parachutes, an GI clothing and mutilated instruction books, were scattered over a radius of 100 yards.

The five flyers were bound from Wright field, near Dayton, O., to Selfridge field, Mich., and were only a few minutes from their destination at the time of the crash.

The army identified them early today as:

First Lt. William C. Reilly, 24, Milwaukee.

First Lt. Raymond L. Berke, 26, San Diego, Calif.

First Lt. Milton D. Cunningham, 24, Centralia, Ill.

M/Sgt. Pearl H. Zempter, 29, whose mother, Mrs. Dora Zempter, lives at Scientsville, O.

Sgt. John H. Kennedy, 40, Lewisburg, Tenn.

Their bodies were mangled beyond recognition and identification was made through flight records at Wright field.

Authorities at the field said the men were to make advance plans at Selfridge for army air shows throughout the nation to acquaint the public with AAF research and development.

Legion Auxiliary Plans Poppy Day Friday, Saturday

The American Legion Auxiliary, Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, will hold its annual "Poppy Day" sale Friday and Saturday. All proceeds will go for the welfare of disabled veterans, their families and the families of the dead.

In a proclamation designating these two days, Mayor Harry L. Dosler stated, "let us as Americans cheerfully respond to this worthy cause and by so doing help make life a little brighter for our disabled war veterans."

Women of the auxiliary will conduct the sale and Mrs. W. E. Marks is serving as poppy chairman.

The Saturday before Memorial Day has been observed as Poppy Day throughout the country for many years, and poppies have been worn in memory of the war dead ever since the close of World War I. The flowers, which are made by hand by disabled veterans, are replicas of the wild flowers which grew on the battle fields of France and Belgium, and have come to symbolize memory for those who died in any part of the world.

The poppy was first sold publicly on the streets of Milwaukee in connection with the reception of the Thirty-second Division in June, 1919, and was sold by the Legion posts of that city just before Memorial Day, 1920, for the purpose of securing funds for disabled veterans. The poppy was made the memorial flower of the American Legion with the adoption of a resolution to that effect at the National Convention in Cleveland in 1920.

27 INDICTED IN VOTE FRAUD IN MISSOURI

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, May 20—The Jackson county grand jury today returned 29 indictments against 27 persons, all but one of the charges involving alleged vote fraud in the primary election here last August.

Names of those charged, and details of the actual violations charged were kept secret pending arrest of those named in the indictments.

The grand jury, which began its investigation March 29 with a mass of evidence obtained by the Kansas City Star, returned indictments April 21 against 39 persons — election judges, clerks and precinct workers — on charges of fraud in connection with the primary.

In the first indictments, the judges and clerks were charged generally with making a "false return of the true and lawful results," others were named as accessories to the alleged false returns.

MAIL DELIVERY CUT MADE HERE

Suspension of Wednesday Afternoon Service Necessitated by Fund Shortage.

Curtailment of postal service in Marion by elimination of Wednesday afternoon mail deliveries in residential and business areas was announced here today by Postmaster Homer D. Cole.

He said the reduced schedule would be "in effect until further notice," explaining he was unable to say when the regular program would be resumed.

Mr. Cole explained the curtailment was due to an emergency arising from the shortage of funds for operation of the postal service. He said postmasters had been directed to keep their expenses within their cash allotments for the June quarter, but still give the best service possible until the emergency ends.

Help Short, Mail Increasing

Lack of funds for the employment of extra help has been the chief problem of the postmasters. Marked increase in the volume of mail handled in practically all postoffices in the country is largely responsible for the present difficulty, postal officials in Washington told The Associated Press last week.

Reports now being compiled at the Marion postoffice will determine the volume of increase here. Mr. Cole said, however, that records already reveal there has been a 50 per cent increase over last year in the number of magazines delivered by Marion mail carriers.

Parcel post deliveries also may be affected on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons by the curtailment of service, Mr. Cole said. He indicated, however, that deliveries on these days would be made as usual if the volume of packages justifies.

May Not Continue Long

That the postal emergency may be of short duration was indicated by news dispatches from Washington last week, when the Associated Press reported the senate has passed a deficiency appropriation bill providing $69,163,100 for the postal department.

Newburyport Abandons Price Cut Experiment

By The Associated Press

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., May 20—This old seaport community has virtually abandoned its widely heralded 10 per cent price cutting program—a month after it became effective — because, merchants said, they did not get cooperation of suppliers.

Sponsors said they were still receiving inquiries about the plan, but in the reply they were stressing that a 10 per cent across-the-board cut cannot be sustained until prices come down all the way from maker to consumer.

Couple Indicted For Murder To Return

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., May 20 — Lucas County Prosecutor Joel S. Rhinefort and Detective Capt. Ralph Murphy were enroute today to Waterloo, Ia., to return a 41-year-old Toledo couple indicted a week ago for first-degree murder in the deaths of James Gleason, 4, and his brother, Gerald, 2, April 25.

A 25-day search for the couple ended yesterday when Harold Lahaney, a former bus driver, was arrested at a hotel where he was employed as a dishwasher and his wife, Flo Avis Lehaney, was taken into custody at their trailer home, Police Chief Harry J. Krieg of Waterloo reported.

Police at Waterloo reported last night that the Lehaneys' 16-year-old daughter, Wilma, said the family's flight started when she told her mother James Gleason died, and her mother said: "Let's get the hell out of here."

The Lehaneys stayed in Big Rapids, Mich., April 25, and arrived in Iowa the next day when Lehaney purchased a trailer, which he later transferred to his wife's name, the Waterloo authorities quoted Lehaney as disclosing.

Mrs. Lehaney, Waterloo police said, told this story:

"Jimmy came to me early in the morning and said he was sick. I put him to bed and applied a hot water bottle to his head, but he kept getting sicker and when my daughter Wilma came I told her to stay with him. While I was at the doctor's Wilma called and said that the boy died."

The daughter, police said, substantiated her mother's story.

At the time of the death, Coroner Paul Hohly said James Gleason's face was covered with welts, and bruises and that there was "no doubt death was the result of head injuries." This finding led to reopening of the case of the dead boy's two-year-old brother, Gerald, and to subsequent indictments.

The Gleason children's mother, Mrs. Virginia Gleason, is a war widow.

NO MORE AID ABROAD SEEN BY MARSHALL

Does Not Predict Any Further Appropriations Like Greek Aid Bill.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 20—Secretary Marshall said today he does not foresee any further appropriations for such purposes as the $400,000,000 Greek-Turkish and the $350,000,000 foreign relief programs.

The secretary told a news conference, however, that he is not prepared to say what may be required in the future.

Marshall added that while the state department does not plan any further requests for foreign funds, the war department soon will ask more money for expenses in the overseas zones, including $78,000,000 for Korea.

To Revive Industry

The Korean fund, officials have said, will be used to revive industry and communications in south Korea which is under American administration.

Marshall said also:

1. He would not concur in reports from London that Britain is looking to the United States to take over her military responsibilities in the Mediterranean in the next two or three years.

2. He favors a very urgent and very prompt allocation of relief funds for Italy from the pending $350,000,000 program.

3. The state department has been following developments in China very carefully trying to find some way to help which could be fully justified both to congress and to the American public. The secretary said the situation in China currently is almost dominated by inflation, with fighting between Nationalist troops and Communists a lesser factor. He said he is giving close study to the problem but could not give any indications what may be the action of this government.

4. The agreement with Soviet Russia to resume negotiations for a unified administration of Korea is most encouraging, but he is superstitious about predicting the outcome.

LAST MAJOR PHONE DISPUTE SETTLED

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20—The last big outstanding dispute in the telephone strike which began April 7 was settled today when agreement on a new contract was reached between the National Association of Communication Equipment Workers and the Western Electric Company in Washington, D. C., a union official said by telephone from Washington.

W. D. Barry, president of Local 69, New York, said the 20,000 members of the union, an affiliate of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, would go back to work at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

Barry said the basis of the settlement was an increase of $4.40 in basic wages, with an additional 35-cent boost weekly in some fringe cases, an increase in transfer allowances, an increase for split and changed shifts and an increase for early starting time.

The union had asked a 15-cent hourly across-the-board increase.

The settlement left only one union still officially on strike

Pilot Battles with Parachute Cords After Jump Into Sea

By The Associated Press

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., May 20—A battle for survival in the dark waters of the Atlantic was told here today by a P-47 fighter plane pilot who parachuted into the ocean late last night and fought to inflate his life raft while entangled in the shroud lines of his parachute.

The pilot, First Lieut. Hubert W. Gainer, 31, of Freeport, N. Y., who was reported in good condition at the state hospital here, was washed ashore at Breezy Point in the Rockaways at about 4:30 a. m. Almost seven hours after he catapulted from his plane.

Gainer, whose wife is in the Panama Canal Zone where he is attached to the 36th fighter group, told officials here he was enroute from Maxwell Field, Ala., to Mitchel field when he ran into bad weather between Washington and New York.

The weather buffeted the plane so badly that some of the instruments went out and the radio worked only intermittently, Gainer said. He attempted to land at the tiny Kings Park field in Suffolk county on Long Island but was unsuccessful in four tries.

Gainer finally reached Mitchel field but his gas supply was too low for him to fly the ground approach control pattern necessitated by the bad weather and he was given a bearing which would take the plane out to sea and ordered to bail out.

Gainer, who was wearing a life raft and jungle pack containing food and medical supplies, could not see the water.

When he hit the ocean, Gainer said, he became entangled in the shroud lines of his parachute and could not get his life raft inflated for 25 minutes.

Gainer said that he drifted aimlessly until about 2 a. m. when he saw lights on the beach and realized he was heading towards shore. Washed ashore at Breezy Point, he was found by Mrs. Grace Cornwell, who notified Mitchel Field.

He was picked up by an ambulance from the field. Notification of his rescue was sent to his wife in the Canal Zone and to his parents Mr. and Mrs. William Gainer at Freeport, N. Y. only a few miles from here.

May Admits He 'Fronted' For Garssons in Company

Mrs. Truman Rallies Today

Slightly Improved After Bad Night; President Remains at Bedside.

By The Associated Press

GRANDVIEW, Mo, May 20 — President Truman's gravely ill mother rallied slightly early today after a bad night.

The President told reporters as he left his hotel in nearby Kansas City for a before-breakfast walk that Mrs. Martha E. Truman "is all right now, but she had a kind of bad night."

He has abandoned all hope for an immediate return to Washington while his 94-year-old mother fights her uphill battle for survival in a modest bungalow in rural Jackson county.

The President, fortified by knowledge of the will power with which she has thrown off previous relapses, clung to a thin thread of hope for his mother's recovery.

The arrival of Margaret Truman, the President's 24-year-old daughter, so encouraged the elderly grandmother that Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross was able to tell reporters that Mrs. Truman was "somewhat better" last night.

The President himself, looking tired and drawn, retired early in his Kansas City Hotel Muehlebach apartment, telling reporters he wanted a good night's sleep in order to be able to spend all of tomorrow with his mother.

Margaret, cancelling singing concert engagements at Pittsburgh tonight and at Cleveland Thursday, drove immediately to her grandmother's bedside upon her arrival here by plane yesterday afternoon.

OHIO VET BONUS NEARS LAST LEGISLATIVE HURDLE

Representatives Set To Put Matter on November Ballot.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 20—Ohio representatives lined up today to boost a $300,000,000 veterans' bonus program over its final legislative hurdle.

The proposal for paying an approximate 800,000 veterans up to $400 was expected to pass the house in virtually the same form approved by the senate. It calls for payments of $15 a month for foreign and $10 a month for domestic service between Pearl Harbor and V-J day, Dec. 7, 1941, and Sept. 2, 1945.

Honorably discharged veterans of all ranks who lived in Ohio a full year before entering service would be eligible. Heirs of service dead would receive $400.

Concurrence of the senate in a few amendments will be needed before the bonus resolution goes to the secretary of state for placing on the election ballot next November.

Final approval of the bonus is up to voters because of a change in the Ohio constitution would be necessary to exceed the present state debt limitation of $750,000.

PROPOSES PURCHASE OF ORDNANCE PLANT

Bill Introduced in State's Plan To Use Scioto Site.

A bill was introduced into the Ohio senate yesterday providing for purchase by the state of a portion of the Scioto Ordnance Plant here for use as an adjunct to the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster.

Sponsor of the measure is Sen. Frank E. Whittemore of Akron, Republican leader in the senate. The bill also provided for purchase from the federal government of the former Fletcher General hospital at Cambridge, now operated under lease by the state as the Cambridge state hospital for the mentally ill.

Sen. Whittemore's proposal is the latest step in the program set up by former state welfare director, Frazier Reams, for the state to acquire 1,293 acres of ordnance plant land, including the administration area buildings, to relieve overcrowding at the Lancaster school.

It was Reams' plan to move more than 500 of the older boys to Marion where a training school would be set up to teach them a useful trade.

The U. S. Army, which operated the Ordnance Plant during the war years, has turned over the land to the Federal Land bank at Louisville, Ky., for disposal as surplus property. Plan to transfer the land has been approved by federal officials in Washington. Whittemore's bill, if passed by the senate and house, will make possible the purchase by the state.

FAIL TO TRACE DISEASE CAUSE

State Health Official Confirms Caledonia Illness as Smallpox; Vaccinate Scores.

Examination by Dr. P. E. Harris of the state health department yesterday confirmed diagnosis of Marion county's first case of smallpox in almost 20 years. The case was discovered Sunday when Dr. M. F. Axthelm of Caledonia was called to the T. J. Hill residence. Mr. Hill had been ill several days. The home was placed under quarantine as soon as the diagnosis was made Sunday.

Source Not Traced

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus, Dr. Harris said he had been unsuccessful in his efforts to trace the source from which Mr. Hill contracted the disease. He has no recollection of contacting any of a group of Mexicans, one of whom became ill with smallpox in Fostoria last week.

In the wake of discovery of the case vaccination of residents started at Caledonia school this morning. Dr. N. Sifritt, county health commisioner, aided by Dr. Axthelm and nurses from the county health office had vaccinated approximately 100 persons at 11 a. m. today, and it was thought about 100 more would receive the vaccine before all who requested it had been cared for.

As an additional precaution against spread of the disease to other parts of the county it was announced this morning that vaccination will be given at Morral school tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Two hundred units of vaccine arrived by special delivery mail in Marion yesterday and more was expected today.

MAN BOUND OVER ON LARCENY CHARGE

Kline Held to Grand Jury in Theft of Purse.

William E. Kline, 20, of 479 East Farmin street, who was arrested Saturday, was charged with grand larceny today and bound over to the grand jury on $1,000 bond.

He is charged with the theft of a purse from Miss Martha Huntsman of 292 Vine street which contained $45 and a diamond ring. The theft took place at the corner of High and Church streets the night of March 27. Police have recovered the ring which they said had been concealed in the wallet carried by Kline. It has been identified by Miss Huntsman as hers.

In the meantime further investigation by the police has led to Kline's implication in another theft. Police said they recovered at Kline's home a set of tools taken from P. A. Smeltzer of 502 East Farming street May 6. The tools had an estimated value of $50.

As no bond has been furnished Kline will be committed to county jail pending hearing by the grand jury.

He is married and the father of one child, police said.

REVEALS POSE AS FIRM HEAD

Tells Court Sham Purposely Arranged To Avoid Labor Trouble.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 20—Former Rep. Andrew J. May testified today at his war fraud trial that he purposely represented himself as the owner of a lumber company in Kentucky to avoid labor trouble.

The wartime head of the house military committee told the jury that munitions makers Henry and Murray Garsson, his co-defendants on bribe conspiracy charges, actually owned the Cumberland Lumber Co., at Prestonsburg, Ky.

The government contends the Garsson brothers used the firm to "cover up" payment of $55,000 in alleged bribes to May for favors in getting contracts for Garsson plants.

Labor Situation Eyed

In testifying that he had represented himself as the lumber company owner, May said:

"I wanted to keep the impression that I owned the property so it wouldn't disturb the labor situation."

Defense Attorney Warren Magee asked May if he had felt that public knowledge of Garsson ownership of the Cumberland company would have prevented the firm from obtaining workers.

Federal Justice Henry A. Schweinhaut suggested this question was "just a little bit leading" but let May answer it.

Hesitates To Give Answer

May chuckled and then said soberly:

"I hesitate to inject this answer into this case. But I had the experience that if it was known down there that this company was owned by outsiders who were Jews, we couldn't get anybody to work in the woods or around the mill.

"I regret to say that. But it's a fact."

May said there was a labor shortage in his home area around Prestonsburg, because 45,000 men had been drafted for the armed forces from his congressional district.

He reiterated his contention that he merely managed the Cumberland tract as an "agent" for the Garssons.

Managers Offer Contradiction

Two former Cumberland company managers, Elroy W. Fields and A. C. Brown have testified as government witnesses that May never told them the Garssons owned the tract. On the contrary, they testified, May posed as owner.

May contradicted their testimony, saying he had confided to both Brown and Fields that the Garssons were the actual owners.

Before May resumed his third day of testimony, the defense called Herman Hale, cashier of the Whitesburg, Ky., bank in an effort to show that they paid off two $2,500 notes as installments on the original purchase price of the Cumberland tract.

Hale said that May sent a personal check from Washington in August, 1944, to pay one of these $2,500 notes. Hale said the other note was paid at about the same time but he could not say by whom.

CIO O.K.'S PACT WITH ALUMINUM COMPANY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 20—Some 2,600 CIO-Mine, Mill and Smelter workers employed by the Aluminum Company of America's local plant have accepted a new contract calling for wage increases totaling 15 cents an hour, union officials reported today.

CIO-United Auto Workers officials also reported wage settlements at the Murray Ohio and the National Screw and Manufacturing Co. plants covering 2,800 employes yesterday.

The ALCOA settlement provided for a general 18-cent hourly wage boost, plus pay for six holidays, retroactive to April 1. Some 2,000 workers at the national screw plant received hourly pay hikes of 11 cents, plus pay for six holidays, and Murray Ohio employes were awarded increases of 11½ cents holiday payments.

At Elyria, O., CIO-UAW representatives announced they had accepted wage increases equal to 15 cents hourly in settlement of a 35-day strike of 1,000 unionists at the Bendix-Westinghouse Automotive Air Brake Co.

String Collector All Wrapped Up in His Hobby

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Kas., May 20—Ed Fouts is all wound up in his hobby.

His hobby is collecting string. That hobby is more complex than the average taxpayer has any idea.

You may never have heard of Ed. But how many people heard of Jack Dempsey before he signed to fight Jess Willard? That is exactly the position Fouts finds himself in today—the dawn period between being a comparatively unknown challenger and the champ.

Hal Boyle

Connoisseurs of string collecting already know that Ed is within striking distance of becoming a historic figure in this neglected art, one of the slow timeless characters who become silent milestones by which subsequent devotees measure their own inching progress.

To put it bluntly, Ed began collecting string on Dec. 12, 1941—a few days after Pearl Harbor—and now has 178 miles of it, carefully tied together in a perfectly round ball standing four feet six inches high after 293 hours of methodical knotting.

Scores of Collectors

There are scores of people in the United States who collect string on a serious basis, and many more who do it intermittently as a light pastime. Ed knows personally of 30 serious collectors, writes to 15 of them to compare progress.

He is outstanding himself—aside from the tremendous size of his ball of string—for two reasons. In his own words:

"I never paid a cent for the twine I have used, and I am the only one that uses the same weight twine all the way through."

Ed is a family man with two children and he has helped two other children get ahead in the world. He runs his own filling station on the edge of town, and he is proud of the fact he has never been late or missed a day's work in 33 years. He is a small, gray-haired energetic man of 56.

Longevity Insurance

"I started collecting string because I read a newspaper article just before the war that a hobby would help you forget your worries and live longer," he said. "Believe me, it does. I get more fun out of seeing the eyes bug out on strangers when they come into my filling station and see this ball of string."

It is something to come upon unexpectedly. It weighs 336 pounds and that explains why Ed is like Jack Dempsey—just before Demysey catapulted to fame.

"One fellow has a 540-pound ball—I think he's in Indiana but I really don't recollect just where he is," Ed said. "By December twelfth this year I think I'll have a 600-pound ball, because I've lined up friends with a big wholesale bakery who are giving me plenty of string. I've got more coming along all the time."

Sorry for Publicity

Ed said he was sorry I had come along to write about this hobby.

"I got the record right now on the same weight twine all the way through—16 gauge," he said. "It's all the same color, too. That's another thing some one's overlooked. But I want to win the all-time twine collecting record hands down."

I think he's afraid that the man who has the 540-pound ball will read this story and speed up his collecting. After all, that fellow doesn't stick to 16-gauge twine.

Ed collects pieces of string about four feet long. I asked him how many knots he had tied. That bothered him. String collectors like to know every statistic about their hobby.

"No body ever saw me tie a knot," he said. "I don't sleep much, and I do it every morning between four and five o'clock."

He looked worried. There was only one way to find out. But 178 miles is a lot of string to unravel.

SAVES BOY, FINDS HE'S HER SON — When Mrs. James Peters, an expert swimmer responding to a summer resort neighbor's cries for help, dove into 14 feet of water at Lakeville, Ind., and rescued a small boy, she was unprepared for the shock she received when she brought him to safety. Administering artificial respiration, Mrs. Peters discovered that the child was her son, Jimmy, 4, who had fallen from a pier into the deep water. Jimmy has promised to learn to swim this summer.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Gallbladder

The gallbladder, which at times causes a lot of trouble, normally acts as a storehouse for bile. During digestion, the gallbladder empties its content into the intestine, where it aids in the digestion of fat.

Gallbladder disease probably occurs for two reasons. One, infection and two, the retention of bile in the bladder.

The eating of fats is the chief factor in causing the gallbladder to contract and empty itself. And, according to Dr. John A. Boone, of the Medical College of South Carolina, gallbladder disease may well be due to a lack of sufficient fat in the diet. It is really a matter of eating only a reasonable amount of fat. The trouble comes from the patient tries to eliminate all fats from the diet.

In support of these statements, doctors point out that while this disease plagues both sexes, it occurs far more frequently in women and especially in those who have borne children. Many women have replaced fats and oils as a source of energy in the diet with starchy foods and sugars, which will not cause the gallbladder to contract enough.

Many women during the childbearing time have been instructed, and rightly so, not to gain excessive amounts of weight. In planning a diet to avoid excessive weight gains the limiting of fats is important but when the fats are almost completely restricted it means that stimulation to emptying of the gallbladder as it should is lacking.

Thus, when gallbladder inflammation has occurred or in order to keep it from developing, it is important to include a reasonable amount of fat in the diet and to avoid overweight by exercise and cutting down of starchy foods and sweets rather than by eliminating fats to too great an extent.

Gallbladder inflammation causes attacks of pain in the right upper part of the abdomen together with sickness to the stomach and vomiting. It is possible sometimes by proper dieting and weight loss to lessen the symptoms to some extent. However, Dr. Boone believes that operation is usually necessary. Usually the gallbladder is completely removed at operation, though it may only be drained. On the other hand, many other physicians favor medical treatment unless gallstones are present or unless the infection becomes acute with fever and danger that the gallbladder might rupture or break open.

More important, however, is the avoidance of overweight, the taking of enough exercise and the use of proper diet in order to help keep gallbladder disease from developing in the first place.

Points To Danger In Setting Grass And Rubbish Fires

This is one of a series of articles on fire prevention prepared as a public service by members of the fire prevention committee of the Chamber of Commerce for publication in The Star.

* * *

Recently The Star carried two articles about three persons being fatally burned and three persons being critically burned due to explosions resulting from starting fires with kerosene.

This is the time of year that loss of life and property due to the above cause is likely to be replaced by another kind of fire—grass and rubbish fires.

The fire committee of the Chamber of Commerce request that you do not start grass fires and that you immediately call the fire department if you see a grass fire.

Grass fires are very difficult to control. Burning off a field destroys valuable fertilizer. The state law provides a fine of not more than $100 or imprisonment of not more than 20 days or both to any person who permits fire to pass from his grounds to injury or destruction of the property of another person.

In case of fire dial Telephone 100.

Special to The Star

GALION, May 20—Rewarded for safeguarding the lives of their schoolmates, 130 members of the School Patrol—100 from Galion schools and 30 from the Mt. Gilead schools—were guests Saturday afternoon of the Galion Automobile club which sponsors the organization.

The School Patrol closed the year with its record which it has retained in the 16 years it has been functioning in Galion of "no accident to any school child in any zone where the patrol was on duty."

The program at the high school at 2:30 p. m., included two safety films, accordion selections played by Barbara Ross, and a vocal duet by Beverly Warwick and Patricia Durtschi with Mrs. Paul Warwick at the piano. The group went to Junior High school where Mrs. Grace Thomas, Automobile club secretary, and her helpers, members of P.-T. A. groups of the city, served lunch.

Dedicated to W. L. Swick, science instructor and member of the Galion High school faculty since 1922, The Spy, annual publication of the senior class of the high school, is being distributed by class members. Swick, senior class sponsor, was advisor for the staff. Wilbert Englehart was editor.

WHEAT CAR OUTLOOK REPORTED IMPROVED

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 20—Railroads will soon will start to move the first million bushel winter wheat crop in the nation's history reported today that their boxcar supply situation was improved over last year.

However, they agreed that transporting such an enormous amount of grain will present a serious problem."

Within the next 10 days harvesting of this fabulous crop—believed to be the largest any nation ever produced—will start in Texas.

Harvesting will progress northward through Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, and when it is over around mid-July a whopping share of wheat will have been added to the food supply of a world desperately in need of bread.

In this rich agricultural territory railroads now are girding themselves for a job unmatched in peace-time history.

Explaining that the Association of American Railroads had ordered eastern lines to supply 777 cars a day to western roads, the Santa Fe eastern lines said, "the eastern lines have been co-operating better than last year and we have stored some cars in the grain territory. Last year we had none stored.

"Considering the enormous production all lines will have some difficulties," the Santa Fe said, "but we expect the crop to be easier to handle than last year when the grain seemed to come from all points at once. We expect a more normal northward harvesting movement this year."

DOUBLE SENTENCE. Harley Hurst (third from left) was sentenced to 10 years in prison for bank robbery, then a few hours later was married to Mrs. Cynthia Reed, in Oklahoma City. (May 13) Judge Carl Traub (left) read the vows while Bill Miskell (second from left) deputy U. S. marshall, was best man. After the ceremony, the bride said: "I know he will be good so he can get a shorter term for good behavior."

AKRON AVOIDS STRIKE BY 1,300 TEACHERS

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., May 20—Mayor Charles E. Slusser's citizens' committee was successful today in averting a strike of Akron's 1,300 public school teachers.

At a mass meeting last night, members of the Akron Education association voted 825 to 76 to accept a compromise salary adjustment in some 50 rubber city schools.

The new agreement, made possible after executives of local rubber companies and other industries agreed to pay taxes in advance to finance the program, calls for $150 adjustment for the present semester, plus an additional $100 boost next fall.

AEA members threatened to walk out last week in support of demands for a $350 annual raise after voters defeated a proposed 3.85-levy to provide salary advances. The levy will appear again on the ballot in November.

Nearly two-thirds of the 150,000,000 pounds of fresh water fish produced in the United States annually comes from the American waters of the Great Lakes.

AUTO REGISTRARS BILL IN OHIO SENATE STYMIED

Would Have Permitted Deputies to Handle Insurance.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 20—Sen. Robert L. Quinn (R-Jefferson) said today his bill to permit deputy automobile registrars to sell insurance apparently was stymied in the senate rules committee.

The measure was referred to the senate highways and automotive committee Jan. 30 and a substitute bill recommended for passage May 1.

The powerful rules committee determines when recommended legislation shall come to a vote on the senate floor.

The substitute proposal would not permit deputy registrars to solicit automobile insurance business from applicants for driver licenses but otherwise they could engage in that business from which they now are banned.

Automobile clubs backed the original measure, Quinn said. He indicated he was not especially pleased with the current version of the measure but would like to see it come out of committee.

The bill also would increase from 16 to 18 years the age limit for obtaining a chauffeur licenses, forbid issuance of driver licenses to anyone under 16, and temporary instruction permits to those under 15. It also would set a six month expiration time for learner permits.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 20—Appointment of Mrs. Lucille G. Rose as associate director of the student financial aids office at Ohio State university, effective June 1, was announced today by the university. Mrs. Rose is public relations representative for the cincinnati office of the Ohio state employment service.

June 16 Adjournment Day Set By Ohio Assembly Resolution

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 20—A house resolution called today for the general assembly to quit work June 6 and adjourn sine die June 16, but senate leaders expressed doubt that such speed was possible.

Senate Majority Leader Frank E. Whittemore (R-Summit) said he didn't see how it could be done. Other senators said it might be done "before July 4."

The adjournment resolution, which requires senate concurrence, was offered in the house by Majority Leader Paul L. McCormick (R-Logan), who said a tacit agreement had been reached on the date at a dinner last night for legislative leaders in the governor's mansion.

Also introduced following the dinner was a bill containing the administration's recommendations for spending $81,568,618 on capital improvements.

No Pride of Authorship

"I have no pride of authorship," Chairman Paul H. Ballard (R-Jackson) of the house finance committee said of the measure which bore his name.

"The finance committee will attempt to do the best it can under the circumstances," he added in a solemn talk on the house floor.

Last week Ballard refused to introduce the improvements measure on the grounds that it called for spending $27,000,000 more than was available.

Ballard suggested that to avoid a deficit, his finance committee should reappropriate and "freeze" about $58,000,000 of the surplus which remains unspent from the capital improvement bill of two years ago.

No Budget Cuts

He said no disposition was evident at the governor's dinner to cut from the record-high $533,000,000 budget bill a $75,000,000 "starter" appropriation for paying veterans' bonuses.

That amendment called for taking $25,000,000 from general funds and $50,000,000 from the state's $181,000,000 surplus as a down payment for bonuses.

Despite talk of early adjournment, senators introduced seven new bills and passed one which would make all liquor permits issued to one establishment expire on the same date.

Crawford Bill Introduced

Other new bills would create three-member building commissions at the six state universities authorized to issue revenue bonds to pay for new dormitories, dining halls and the like on lands not owned by the state, and to allow Crawford county to spend $85,000 received as damages for wartime use of its fairgrounds on improvements at the exposition site.

The house debated nearly two hours on a senate-approved bill by Sen. George G. Schurtz (R-Coshocton) to permit the state health director to require vaccination of all dogs in a county threatened by an outbreak of rabies and then returned the measure to its health committee.

The governor sent to the senate his nomination of Joseph B. Hanan of Akron for reappointment as a Kent State university trustee and announced that O. C. Belt of Columbus would serve as chairman of the state racing commission until June 28 to replace John E. Lokar of Cleveland who resigned last week under fire. Belt already is a member of the commission.

Taft Spurns Health Bill

No Place in G.O.P. Schedule This Session, Senator Says.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 20—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today the Republican-controlled senate has no place on its 1947 schedule for the "long and bitter battle" that would be required to pass a federal health bill.

This rejection by the G.O.P. policy committee chairman of President Truman's appeal for "immediate attention to the development and enactment of national health and disability insurance programs" was accompanied, however, by a promise of early hearings on the question.

To Listen To Testimony

Taft said the labor committee, which he heads, will start listening to testimony on health needs in a few days.

"But we don't intend to take up the bill this year," he told a reporter. "There will be a long and bitter battle in the senate before the issue of compulsory insurance is settled and we just don't have time for it in this session."

Senator Murray (D-Mont) announced he planned to introduce a bill today to carry out most of the suggestions made by the President in a message to congress yesterday.

Wants 5 Features

The President said he wants (1) "Adequate health services, including an expanded maternal and child health program," (2) "Additional medical research and education facilities," (3) "More hospitals and more doctors," (4) Insurance to cover medical costs and (5) "Protection against loss of earnings during illness."

Murray said the new measure differs from the Murray-Wagner-Dingle bill before the last session of congress in that it provides for administration of the program and a board of five persons instead of placing it under the direction of the surgeon general. It retains authorization for compulsory health insurance.

A Republican bill, sponsored by Taft and others, is more likely to come out of the labor committee. It would provide aid to states, on a matching formula for various health services, but would not set up a federal health insurance system.

Flight to Paris from New York takes 15 hours today and doesn't raise a ripple of excitement, but when one man flew the route alone on May 20, 1927, he found the world at his feet. Taking off from Roosevelt Field, L. I., Charles A. Lindbergh landed in Paris 33½ hours later to become an overnight world hero. An aviation consultant today, Lindbergh lives quietly in Connecticut with his family. Eighteen other persons flew the ocean the year of Lindbergh's momentous flight. Students Sell Blood For Spending Money

By The Associated Press

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 20 — Authorities of at least one Memphis High school were investigating today reports that schoolboys were selling their blood to get spending money.

Father John A. Elliott, principal of Catholic High school, said that many youths had turned professional blood donors, "especially during the Cotton Carnival last week."

He said 23 students from his school had sold blood to a clinic for $10 a pint and that they reported that students from other schools doing the same.

"It seems the word just passed from one to another and the fellows found it an easy way to make some money," Father Elliott declared.

SAYS CATTLE GET BETTER DEAL THAN U. S. CHILDREN

Editor Notes Appropriations for Farms, None for Schools.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 20 — "If children were cattle," says the publisher of Parents magazine, "they would get a much squarer deal from Uncle Sam."

Speaking yesterday at the annual meeting of the children's home here, George J. Hecht of New York City said the federal government "appropriates" many times as much money for the welfare of cattle, hogs and other farm animals, as it does for the education of children."

While the federal government appropriated nothing toward the salaries and training of teachers, Hecht said, "it votes, annually, many millions for the education of farmers and for agricultural extension workers to be sent to every state in the union to teach farmers how to care for their cattle."

He urged parents to demand passage by congress of federal aid to education legislation.

3,000,000 College Students Predicted In America by 1950

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 20 — The chief of the veteran educational facilities program says there will be 3,000,000 college students in America by 1950—just twice as many as the nation had before the war.

The big problem, said E. V. Hollis of Washington yesterday will be construction of enough new buildings for all those students. Between now and 1950, he said, present university and college capacity will have to be almost doubled.

Speaking before a national conference on building problems of urban universities, Hollis said he recently finished a survey of 1,100 of the country's 1,700 colleges and estimated additional buildings would cost about $3,000,000,000.

On hand or in sight, he declared, is about $1,000,000,000 and the source for the rest of the program is unknown.

Taking up the same theme, Dr. George F. Zook, president of the American Council of Education, also of Washington, said most of the remaining $2,000,000,000 would have to come from cities, states and the federal government.

In another discussion last night, Dean Ernest J. Pickering of the college of applied arts of the University of Cincinnati, said he thought the trend in architectural styles at colleges was moving toward modern, as opposed to traditional forms.

AGREE TO LET FOREMEN ENTER SALTER PLANT

Supervisory Employes Had Been Barred by Strikers.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, May 20 — An agreement between company and union representatives that supervisory employes of the H. B. Salter Mfg. Co. be admitted to the plant without interference by pickets was reached at a meeting held Monday in the office of C. A. Hoopes, company attorney.

Foremen had been barred from the strike bound plant since last Tuesday morning. During the meeting the wage issue that caused the walkout of three AFL unions was also discussed but no agreement which would hasten the end of the strike was reached.

U. S. Labor Conciliator Haywood Montoney, present at the meeting, suggested that another meeting between the two factions be held June 2 in an effort to settle the wage issue and end the strike. Both sides agreed to the meeting.

Farm Workers Decline While Acreage, Income Shows Jump

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, May 20—You've heard this: Farm workers are fewer and farms are getting bigger and fewer. It's true. But ...

City life, city jobs and better pay have drawn farm workers. And since machines do the work of many men, bigger and better farm machinery has meant less need for farm hands.

James Marlow

Thanks to the machines and better farming methods, bigger farms can be worked better than small farms formerly could be with manpower.

Here's the story as told by figures from the agriculture department. Where possible, the years used are 1910-14, the pre-World War I period, and 1946, the first year after World War II.

The average number of farm workers:

1910-14—12,051,000, when total U. S. population was 91,000,000.

1946 — 10,012,000, when total U. S. population was 140,000,000.

Farm Workers Drop

So the number of farm workers dropped more than 2,000,000 while the total U. S. population was increasing 49,000,000.

The average number of farms:

1910-14 — 6,400,000.

1946 — 5,900,000.

That drop of 500,000 in the number of farms might make it seem less farmland was being worked. Not so.

Land under cultivation:

1910-14 — 310,566,000 acres.

1946 — 345,773,000 acres.

Farm Size Increases

Thus while the number of individual farms dropped and total farming land increased, the size of farms increased.

Average size of farms:

1910-14 — 138 acres.

1945 — 194 acres.

But what of the value of the crops farmers produced?

Cash receipts, or the money farmers got for their products:

1924 — $10,220,000,000.

1946 — $23,900,000,000.

Of the $23,900,000,000 in cash receipts in 1946, about $900,000,000 came from government subsidies, or payments, of one kind or another.

So, exclusive of how the government helped out, farm cash receipts more than doubled between 1910-14 and 1946.

But that money was the pay farmers got for what they raised. How much did they have left after meeting expenses?

The average net income, after expenses, of farm operators:

1910-14 — $586.

1945 — $2,134.

These are average figures. Big farmers netted far more than those average figures show, and small farmers netted much less.

Uncle Comes Through

WHATEVER caused the food crisis in Germany, it can only be rectified by somebody with food to spare. That means the job devolves upon old Uncle You-know-who.

American authorities in Germany say the food crisis has largely resulted from German mismanagement. Germans don't like corn, so it went to fatten pigs. All hogs over 154 pounds went to the butcher, even the good breeding sows, of which there now is a shortage. Livestock was overfed. Much of the food wound up in the black market. Conditions are rapidly moving toward the famine stage.

So now it's up to old Uncle You-know-who and he's shipping Germans 700,000 tons of wheat as quickly as possible. Not so many months ago he was loathing the Germans and vowing he would never say a kind thing about them or do a kind deed for them. But now he sends food, not because of a newly-found love for Germans, but because he knows a famine-swept Germany can have disastrous consequences for the rest of the world. With Germany one huge charnel-house, pestilence would spread and anarchy would take root. He knows he must be his brother's keeper even if the brother have the mark of Cain on his forehead.

The Sound of Things To Come

SCIENCE is doing wonderful things with the ultrasonic whistle and the supersonic moan. Seattle has a $2,000 peanut whistle which people can't hear but which drives birds crazy. It keeps starlings and pigeons out of the downtown area. Also available at a much more moderate cost is a whistle with which an owner may call his dog, although its sound is inaudible to human beings.

On a more ambitious scale, science is using high frequency vibrations to disseminate fog, speed us chemical reactions, settle the dust in mines and granaries, and mow reeds in the New Jersey tidal meadows—all on an experimental scale, so far. Overseas, England short of soap, finds that a sound wave shot through a bails of soaking shirts, knocks the dirt right out of them.

Most of these high-frequency waves have a strange effect on human beings. They cannot hear them, yet they become vaguely uncomfortable without being able to explain why. Some of the more powerful waves can produce a state approaching catalepsy.

The day may be near when we have the ultrasonic laundry (a sound outfit to do business with) and the supersonic lease-breaker, guaranteed to rout the most recalcitrant tenants.

Dr. Tobin's Diagnosis

DANIEL J. TOBIN, born in Ireland in 1875, is president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers, a major power in the AFL and a political associate of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. Beyond these capacities, Mr. Tobin also is editor of The International Teamsters, a monthly in which he states his views on questions of the day, diagnosing the nation's ills and prescribing for them.

In the current issue of The Teamster, Dr. Tobin concludes that private enterprise in the United States may not live until the end of this year. The only hope he sees is restoration of wartime price controls. Unless this is done, he warns, the jig is up. "The coming cyclone will leave little behind it," he declares, "perhaps not even congress."

Frequently, citizens of this country are heard to wonder what causes union leadership to act thus and say so—what motivates some of their policies which seem to be in direct conflict with public welfare. A man who thinks private enterprise will die unless the government restores wartime controls, who thinks this may happen in 1947 and sees even congress being blown away in a big wind is likely to be an enigma to his fellow Americans in more ways than one.

Memo for Women Only

THE next time dust is discovered on a chair seat, the top of the piano, or a window sill, do not exclaim, "I don't know where all the dust comes from!" Science has found out. The chemical department of Iowa State College has learned that dust collects on furniture because of a positive charge in the furniture and a negative charge in the dust. Thus, the furniture actually draws dust to it.

Provide a negative charge in the furniture, however, and dust is repelled, instead of attracted. The news in this memo is that the Iowa State College chemists already have built a dust-repellant chair and intend to go on from there. While statesmen wrangle over the big tough problems of the world, the benefactors of mankind are quietly emancipating the household drudges. Somewhere a scientist is developing a potato without a skin, a cherry without a stone, clothing that won't get dirty, dishes that won't have to be washed and carpets that will digest the dirt which collects on them. Civilization is not going from bad to worse, contrary to a prevailing impression. It is making giant strides toward getting rid of dust on furniture.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Women Get Things Done for Home Town.

OUR TOWN, USA, May 20—A woman in an Ohio suburb writes the women of her community have been getting away from old style meetings of clubs, which pass mournful resolutions about the atom bomb, Russia, UN and ther things they hear free lecturers talk about, and have turned toward getting things done in their own community, things they really know about and can do something about. They are getting behind a bond issue for a new school, went to the state legislature to increase teachers' minimum pay, got after delinquent taxes to raise some money, secured a new leader for the Boy Scouts and started a Girl Scout troop—all of which is just beginning to improve their living. They have their usual run of bickering and petty jealousies, she says, but concludes from her experience this far: "Maybe this is the way to world peace."

We are doing the same thing in our town and others nearby. We have found the women get more things done than the men. Lately they have riled themselves justly about the way building is going. Their experience should be valuable information to people all over the country who realize this nation is largely a collection of small communities which can considerably work out their own road to postwar progress. Indeed, they have turned over a situation in another locality which has somewhat sensational national implications.

Fancy Prices

A syndicate of small builders and real estate people who do not have much money are trying to put over a $15,000,000 multiple housing project on land which has some aspects of the famous Florida lot at high tide. It is partly marsh, partly flooded and must be expensively filled before the builders can find a foundation, if any. Now there are many good, solid building projects in our district, which the people are behind. Some needed apartment houses are to be put up, and there is wholesale veterans housing around, which, at least, might make money.

Cost of materials these days, however, runs the rent and sales prices up out of sight. We hear of a hotel in a city not too far away where an addition is costing $15,000 per room—per room, mind you. Dealers are charging our veterans $3,000 more on a $15,000 house than anyone will appraise it for. Inflationary prices are bound to come down as soon as we get production, so most people are waiting.

But the peculiar circumstance about this multiple house project is this: The syndicate went to an insurance company which presumably promised the money. The insurance company enjoys from the government in these matters, a complete assurance that it will gain any profits and cannot suffer a loss on its 90 per cent advance. The loan is to be insured by FHA at 90 per cent—90 per cent, mind you. So if the builders and real estate dealers lose their 10 per cent oroginal cost, say $1,500,000, they can make far more than that by doing the building, furnishing the materials and handling the lands. They can take the loss of their 10 per cent advance and make money out of uneconomic building.

Provision for Shift

The insurance company can shift the whole project on default to the government. Thus everyone makes money except the FHA, which becomes a renter by gaining the property at 90 per cent of its vastly inflated cost, and rents for whatever a losing project would bring. In short, these 90 per cent government loans which guarantee insurance companies all profit and no losses, are opening up uneconomic building. This one is so poorly managed they want to build another shopping center where we already have too many a few blocks further, and a movie theater, whereas we have built several new ones in the area in the last year or so.

The nearby merchants are discouraged because they fear FHA might finance competition with another shopping center. The theater owners do not like it. The real estate people see that FHA would get the project in the end and jeopardize rent bases by making FHA the landlord.

The women are going before the zoning commission with their case. They stopped one such multiple housing scheme, at least temporarily.

I asked a good businessman what he thought of the project. He said:

"A first class hick from the backwoods would not fall for a proposition like that; yet the federal government is expected to fall for it in the name of veterans' housing, although I understand FHA is getting tougher than it used to be and I would not think it would take such a risk."

Apparently all building is not as laudatory as its name would imply in the interest of "veterans," who are being gouged in the purchase of homes which would not make a good domicile for a flock of mosquitoes.

My guess is the women will stop this thing as they stopped the other one. But they will have to remain continuously alert in order to keep our community up to what it now is, against people who think they can get rich fast under the FHA 90 per cent loan insurance even on bad projects.

Time and a Half for Swing Time?

Instructors of a New York dancing school have been out on strike.

So far as I can determine, this is history's first combination picket and conga line.

What do they want . . . fewer fox trots and bunyon-to-bunyon pay?

They'll waltz you around again, Willie, but only for more dough.

Incidentally, the striking union is an affiliate of CIO. Thus, when the phone rings and someone asks for Mr. Murray, there comes the inevitable query: "You mean Arthur or Phil?"

I had thought at first it might be a jurisdictional dispute involving the Teamsters Union . . . After all, they do teach trucking.

The Squeeze on Korea

By RAYMOND MOLEY

A FRESH Russian-American attempt to settle the Korean problem will start in Seoul this week. This new meeting, like previous ones, may end in frustration. But if progress can be made, some light will be thrown on the entire East Asia picture and on our general relations with Soviet Russia.

For Korea illustrates many of the problems which still keep the Far East in confusion. And, incidentally, it reflects some of the confusion which prevents a settlement in Europe.

There seems to be a great mystery about what was said or decided about at Yalta. One theory is that Roosevelt agreed that, as part of the price of Russia's entry into the Japanese war, Korea should be within the broad sphere of Russian influence. This, however, runs counter to the Cairo agreement to restore Korea as an independent nation.

The fact is that for military reasons and for purposes of temporary occupation, Russia and the United States have apparently worked out a division of Korea at the 38th parallel.

Unbiased Reporter's View

An exceedingly informative book on postwar conditions in the Far East was published just last week. It is "No Peace For Asia," by Harold R. Isaacs, who ranged up and down the Far East in the months after the war with the open eyes of an honest veteran reporter. Isaacs was a witness of occupation. Of the partition he writes:

"But whether it was a military line or a political line to begin with, whether it was designed to be temporary or permanent, and no matter where or by whom it was conceived, the partition has been utterly ruinous for Korea. On that artificial boundary line, Korean hopes for freedom and independence were hung like a ragged scarecrow on barbed wire. By it this little country was economically and politically hamstrung."

The division of Korea has been not unlike the partition of Germany. Korea, despite its 36 years of Japanese captivity, has powerful nationalistic traditions. Its economy is rich and self-sufficient. But it cannot remain so if the country is partitioned. In the north are coal and other minerals, as well as extensive chemical, iron and steel plants. The south, however, feeds the north and provides it with a great variety of the products of lighter industry. The country thus requires integration.

Testing Ground

But as Isaacs points out, Korea is "between the millstones." It is one of the many testing grounds of power between the United States and the Soviet Union. If it remains for five years a protectorate for either or both of the great powers, it will ultimately fall into chaos, and Koreans will regret their liberation from Japan, which, in any event, was shrewd enough to keep the Korean economy in one piece.

The sooner both the United States and Soviet Russia offer an object lesson by restoring Korean independence, the sooner a pervasive fear in Asia will be removed.

For the nub of Isaacs' book is that British and Japanese power politics in Asia is now replaced by the power politics of Soviet Rusisa and the United States. And Asiatics are rapidly losing that great faith in us which was stimulated by the grandiose expressions of Messrs. Roosevelt, Willkie, Wallace and others. We have, says Isaacs, brought disillusionment to Korea, China, Indonesia and Indo-China. We have backed reaction, and we have underwritten imperialism.

Whatever may be the ultimate destiny of Russian-American relations, the two rivals are creating no enthusiasm in either Europe or Asia. Little people want to live and be let alone. They bitterly resent becoming the battleground for great rivalries. Many distrust communism and have deep doubts about democracy. The "reservoir" for good will, so proudly proclaimed by Wendell Willkie, is rapidly running dry. Of this, anyone who is seriously interested in our future in the Far East will find powerful confiramtion in "No Peace For Asia."

Smuts Points Way for Britain

By WALTER LIPPMANN

NEARLY a year ago, at the end of June, the prime minister of South Africa, Field Marshal Smuts, delivered an address at the Pilgrim's dinner in London. Little attention was paid to it at the time, but a short news report to the New York Times said that he had pictured "the world of tomorrow as divided into two great power groups with the British group between them," and that it was the task of the British Empire to interpret "the one to the other, thus preventing war."

The significance of that statement was not appreciated either by the state department or by the American public, though a statement of that sort would not have been made idly by an empire statesman at a Pilgrim's dinner.

Prime Minister Smuts was speaking only a few months after Mr. Churchill's speech at Fulton, and shortly after Secretary Byrnes had been converted to the thesis of the Fulton speech, and had begun to act on the idea of an Anglo-American front throughout the world against the Soviet Union. The policy of the Smuts speech was so radically different from that of the Fulton speech that few Americans at the time were willing to believe that it was more than a vagrant expression of a personal opinion.

Most of those who professed to speak with knowledge and authority about British affairs have kept on insisting that only a few back benchers of the left and some "crypto-Communists" and fellow travelers take the view which Smuts stated: That the interest of Britain is not to align itself with the United States against the Soviet Union but to take an independent line.

Doctrine Unpopular

So they felt sure that the so-called Truman doctrine, which descends directly from the Fulton speech, would be received with enthusiasm in Great Britain. It should have been if the fashionable and official estimate of Britain was correct. But in fact the Truman doctrine has had a generally unfavorable reception in Britain, as it has almost everywhere else in Europe, though for reasons of expediency rather than of conviction the expression of the unfavorable opinion has been restrained, and indirect, except, of course, on the far left.

Now, however, events are beginning to show that the Smuts speech of last June, rather than the Fulton speech and the Truman doctrine, indicate the direction in which British policy is evolving. There has been the royal visit to South Africa, where Smuts is prime minister. There is the recession of Britain from Greece, Turkey, Egypt and Palestine. There is the economic agreement with Poland, and the British negotiations with the Soviet Union. There is Mr. Churchill's speech last week wherein, as he advocated a united Europe, he spoke of "We Europeans," and asked the dominions and the United States to give their blessings to Britain's new role, which is "to play her full part as a member of the European family."

These are portents which we shall ignore, or explain away, only if we are determined not to know what is going on in the world. The royal family did not go to South Africa in order to escape the cold weather in England but to mark and to promote the change in the empire and the revolution in imperial strategy. In South Africa, which is an immensely rich and undeveloped land, Britain may find the means of becoming, despite the liquidation of the Indian and Near Eastern Empires, an independent great power in the world. The British people have been great too long to accept passively the role which was assigned to them in the Fulton speech, and is implicit in the Truman doctrine, that of the little brother in a "fraternal association" with us.

British On Move

As they withdraw from the old imperial positions they are looking for new ones. They are withdrawing from Asia into Africa as regards their overseas empire. They are moving forward into Europe as regards the British Isles. They are drawing closer to France. They are not allowing the "iron curtain" to shut them, as we have allowed it to shut us, out of Poland. They will not abandon and they will probably strengthen and renew their alliance with the Soviet Union.

None of this means, I need hardly say, that they are divorcing themselves from the United States. But it does mean that they are not accepting the ideological pattern and the political consequences which Mr. Churchill laid down at Fulton and President Truman adopted a year later. I think it is fair to suppose that they regard the Truman doctrine as a wrong way to do a right thing and in its reckless overtones an aberration, due to inexperience, which this country, as it reflects upon it, will replace by a much more constructive policy based on the actualities of the world.

I have no doubt myself that this is what is going to happen as we reexamine and reassess our position, the general commitments which have been made for us so theoretically and the enormous responsibilities and burdens which we shall soon have to meet.

The Once Over

Banana Duel in the Sun

Is the song "Never put bananas in the refrigerator" being replaced by the theme "Never put a banana customers anywhere else?" According to the nation's biggest factor in the banana business the answer is in the affirmative.

• • •

If you like bananas you are a victim in a skin game. You are being exploited by the banana interests. The United Fruit Company, which brings most of the bananas to market, has come out with a direct charge that the retailers are gouging the banana public.

• • •

"We are selling bananas at 5½ cents a pound seaboard," says a United Fruit announcement. "This is less than was received at public auction for bananas before price control. The spread between the price we are charging, plus rail freight and handling charges, and the retail prices is excessive. It is to be hoped the banana dealers will reduce the retail price to more reasonable levels."

• • •

Five and a half cents a pound for bananas. And at retail, the banana consumer pays that much, and more, for one banana.

• • •

The fruit store charges you more than a nickel and a half for a banana preview. When the American housewife read the United Fruit statement on what it sells bananas for, you could have knocked her over with a banana-split.

• • •

They have been so high-priced for years that they long ago disappeared from Junior's lunch box. And who remembers away back when bananas were the main ingredient of a picnic?

• • •

Has the banana become the symbol of ruthless gouging? From the interiors of the fruit store of the land, do we hear "Yes, we have no banana conscience?"

• • •

When one factor in the banana trade blows the whistle on another factor its news.

• • •

At the present moment almost the only response to President Truman's appeal for price cuts all along the line has come from the United Fruit, or "Banana Line." The President is understood to be cheered by the news, but his joy is somewhat chilled by the realization that the banana is not the staff of American life and that no matter what you do to a banana, you can't use it to build a home, clothe the kiddies, or add richness to the stew.

• • •

And so far as we know, no kitchen has produced a banana omelette or a banana croquette.

What fun to chase elusive bass
With each trip quite a bloomer;
You hotly chase a wild report
And then you hook a rumor.

A young lady who charges a taxi driver with assault says she ordered the taxi driver to take her home and that on the way "we stopped at several places for drinks." The chummy note in transportation.

Speaking of all those disputes among high figures in the national game, do you suppose it marks the return to the lively brawl?

New York is to put a tighter ban on sleeping pills. We understand the authorities leading this movement are doing so as friends of fence-jumping sheep.

• • •

And then there is the story that the New York health commissioner is a victim of insomnia. He can't sleep nights thinking about all the people who sleep by using sleeping pills.

Ingrid Bergman grossed $820,000 in "Joan of Lorraine" and four of her pictures just run have brought 22 millions. We can't wait to see her in a movie "Over The Hill To the Poorhouse."

Following that victory of Soviet at Belmont the other day, came the triumph of Red Devil in the Rampano Stakes. Can it be that the lone figure we saw talking to a horse behind an oak there was Joe Stalin?

Truman S Twill

By TRUMAN TWILL

For an obvious reason we're interested in Harry S. Truman's troubles with that middle initial in his name. It occurs to us, though, that he is making part of the trouble for himself by putting a period behind the S.

That is the main reason why his countrymen keep insisting that S-period must stand for something, like Llewellyn in John L. Lewis, or David in Dwight D. Eisenhower. S-period looks like an abbreviation.

Mr. Truman has made things even tougher for himself by explaining that the S-period could stand for the name of either one of his grandfathers, one of whose first names was Solomon. The other grandfather's last name was Shippe. The truth is, though that the S doesn't stand for anything. It's just an S. It might as well be a J.

What the President should have said the first time anyone got nosy about that S was to admit that it didn't mean anything, instead of trying to contrive a credible explanation, because the explanation has muddied the issue.

The point we're getting at is that, if we wanted to, we could put an S between Truman and Twill, just the same as Harry Truman put one between Harry and Truman—and it wouldn't need to stand for anything at all. If curious fellow citizens thought that was strange, we wouldn't need to cook up a lie to tell them either.

It would be simpler just to ask them what the letters stood for in Robert E. Hannegan, Tom A. Clark, James V. Forrestal, Julius A. Krug, Clinton P. Anderson, Lewis B. Schwellenbach, W. Averell Harriman and James F. Byrnes, all political pals of Harry S. Truman.

What Mr. Truman had a chance to do was lay down a policy that a man's name is his own business and if he wants to insert PDQ in the middle of it he has as much right to do it as to add a bunch of letters to the end of it. As a matter of fact, the President of the United States could write his name Harry Truman S, if he felt like it.

All those extra letters ever do anyway is make a name sound a little fancier. Truman Twill is just a name. But make it Truman S Twill, no period please, and one thinks of high-class stuff. Or maybe Truman T Twill, Truman A Twill, or Truman Z Twill. The Z wouldn't stand for a thing, except maybe Zachariah in a pinch, for an old reprobate on pa's side of the family who was strung up for horse-stealing in Arizona on a cottonwood tree 10 miles south of Phoenix in the year the grasshoppers almost got Brigham Young.

Ancient Ruins Found in Jerusalem

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM—Parts of walls and pillars as well as mosaics of an apparently big building erected about 1,300 years ago have been found and excavated in Jerusalem zone B—one of the three closed and barbed wire-surrounded security areas within the Palestine capital.

Experts believe these archeological remains formed part of one among many monasteries built in Jerusalem in Byzantine times.

The discovery, which has been investigated by the Palestine government archeologists, was made while building a new road.

BETTER THAN PILLS FOR CONSTIPATION

Finds Famous Breakfast Cereal Most Helpful of All

Have you given up hope of being "regular" again? Then read this sincere, unsolicited letter:

"I am a registered nurse and I know what a problem constipation is, especially with patients deprived of their usual physical activities. Where pills brought temporary relief, eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly actually prevented irregularity in more cases than I can mention. Your product is a great boon to our modern age." Miss Katherine E. Walsh, Town Hall, Newington, Conn.

Yes, eating ALL-BRAN regularly often brings lasting relief from constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet. For best results, eat it for breakfast every day—and drink plenty of water. Try KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN for 10 days! If by that time you are not completely satisfied, send the empty carton to the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan, and get double your money back!

ALL-BRAN* is not a purgative but a wholesome food made from the vital outer layers of whole wheat. Eat daily either as a cereal, or in muffins. Ask your grocer for KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN.

WALLACE SEES BASIS FOR LASTING PEACE

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, May 20—Henry A. Wallace told an outdoor audience last night that despite present global unrest "there is a basis for lasting peace in a world in which capitalism, socialism and communism live side by side."

The former vice president spoke in the 100,000 seat stadium where an enormous seating arrangement for 93,000 was filled to capacity.

Robert W. Kenny, Southern California chairman of the Progressive Citizens of America, introducing Wallace, referred to him as "the man for '48." Many in the audience immediately responded with a chant: "Wallace in '48."

"We challenge the false assertion of the Truman doctrine that the embattled peoples of the world are crying out for American guns and tanks to resist a totalitarian aggressor," declared Wallace. "We challenge the cynical assertion of the Truman doctrine that the peoples of the United Nations can be bought and paid for with 400 million dollars."

This is the amount the American government has earmarked as aid to Turkey and Greece in an effort to contain Russia's sphere of influence.

"Of communism," he declared: "I am not afraid of communism. If I fail to cry out that I am anti-communist, it is not because I am friendly to communism, but because at this time of growing intolerance I refuse to join even the outer circle of that band of men who stir the steaming caldron of hatred and fear.

"I have no fear of persecution. I shall go on speaking out for peace as long as there is hope for peace in the world."

Turning to the domestic scene, Wallace criticized what he described as the "bi-partisan bloc" in the government. He declared it has no place in peacetime and he espoused the two-party system, adding: "One of these parties—the Democratic party — must be liberal!"

Tax Slashing Bill Heads For Senate Floor Action

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 20 — The tax cut bill headed today for the senate floor where the time-for-action division is so close that Democrats chose to hold up a delaying motion to await an expected Republican recruit.

With talk as their round strategy, Democrats are seeking to postpone until June 10 any final decision on the committee-approved measure whacking individual income taxes from 30 to 10.5 per cent, effective July 1.

The minority party members were ready to let the bill be placed formally before the senate after a scheduled midafternoon vote on a pending science foundation bill.

But they obviously hoped to avoid a showdown on the postponement motion until Senator Langer (R-ND) returns to Washington. Langer is expected back tomorrow and the Democrats hope he will bring with him the decisive vote for their side.

ATOM ILLUSION WARNING GIVEN

Gromyko Tells U. S. Present Monopoly Can Only Be Temporary.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20—Andrei A. Gromyko, U.S.S.R. delegate to the United Nations security council, said last night that an atomic weapons monopoly by any one country can be only "of a temporary character" and "in reality, such monopoly is an illusion."

"Who knows?" Gromyko asked. "The time may come when the country, at present occupying a more favorable position in this respect than other nations, will find itself in the same, or maybe even in a less favorable position in comparison with other states in the field of the development and perfection of certain dangerous kinds of weapons if such weapons are not prohibited."

Speaks at Dinner

The deputy Soviet foreign minister discussed the United States' apparent atomic "monopoly" and Russia's objection to American proposals for international inspection and control of atomic energy development at the annual dinner of the American Russian institute.

Gromyko emphasized three points:

1. The prohibition of atomic and mass-destruction weapons must be undertaken promptly by United Nations action.

2. That after atomic weapons are outlawed, Russia will agree to international control and inspection.

3. That this inspection must be limited to assuring development of atomic energy for peaceful purposes only, and must not infringe on the internal economy of the U.S.S.R.

"Speak Too Frankly"

Gromyko, saying that perhaps he spoke "too frankly" but that "it is much easier to understand correctly when one speaks frankly," contended that opponents of immediate prohibition of atomic weapons introduce proposals "which do not follow from the demands made on international control of atomic energy."

"Effective inspection," he said, "does not at all require the provision of unlimited powers for the inspectorate. * * * Expansion of the powers of inspection to the limits which would lead to interference in the domestic affairs of states by the control organ cannot find any justification.

"The Soviet Union cannot agree that its national economy be made dependent on the will even of a majority in the control organ, being aware that such majority may take one-sided decisions."

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF SUN OCCURS IN BRAZIL TODAY

Clear Weather Believed Promising for Success of Films.

By The Associated Press

BOCAIUVA, Brazil, May 20 — A total eclipse of the sun occurred here today in clear weather, which promises success for the preparations of a large group of American scientists gathered on a wooded plateau at Vocaiuva to witness the phenomenon.

The eclipse began about 8:22:36 a. m., became total at 9:34:48, remained in totality three minutes and 48 seconds, and continued in partiality until 11:03:36. The times (all two hours ahead of EST) are subject to official confirmation.

The eclipse was not visible to the naked eye, however, at a similar observation station at Araxa, 275 miles southwest of Baciuva, because the sky was cloudy and overcast.

The eclipse was not seen in the northern hemisphere.

(A broadcast heard in Rio de Janeiro quoted Prof. C. C. Kiess, of the U. S. bureau of standards, as saying "the total eclipse observations at Bocaiuva were 100 per cent successful, pending of course, development of the films." The broadcaster remarked during the period of totality: "It is deep night here: even the sun is black. The sky is midnight blue, and there are brilliant stars.")

LYNCH-TRIAL CALLED NORTHERN VOTE BID

By The Associated Press

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 20 —A defense attorney for 28 white men declared today the federal government sought to use a lynch-trial "to get votes in the north in a crucial election" and added: "Willie Earle (the Negro lynch victim) is dead, and I wish more like him were dead."

Judge J. Robert Martin Jr. thundered "You confine yourself to my ruling (against racial issues) or I'll stop you from arguing to the jury."

"I didn't refer to Willie Earle as a Negro," protested Defense Counsel John B. Culbertson.

"I don't care what you referred to, I'm warning you," said the court, "it is highly prejudicial."

Culbertson then turned to the jury and continued:

"If a mad dog were loose in my community I would shoot the dog and let them prosecute me."

Earlier, Culbertson remarked that Attorney General Tom Clark —"a southern boy from Texas" —had ordered the FBI to investigate the South Carolina lynching.

"If a Democratic administration would do that to us," he said, "what would a Republican administration do? Could it be that they hope to use the south to get votes in the north in a crucial election?"

The first automobile trip across the United States, in 1901, took 61 days.

Mobile Scale Tester Starts Round Of Ohio Weight Checks

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 20 — A mobile scale tester intended to make sure the load of coal or calves you're buying weighs as much as the man says it does has started the rounds of Ohio counties.

Vernon D. Campbell, deputy state sealer of weights and measures, accepted the $10,000 truck-mounted equipment from the makers in Cleveland yesterday and put it to work there today.

The gadget is a trolley rigging by which 1,000-pound weights can be lowered from the truck bed to the scale platform. If the weight bar shows 1,000 pounds, the scale is accurate, and, if it doesn't, Campbell issues a warning. A couple of warnings may mean prosecution, Frank Farnsworth, state director of agriculture and state sealer, declared.

Farnsworth said it was planned to check a number of vehicle scales in each county, mainly the problem cases," so that local sealers of weights and measures would have standard scales upon which to check-weigh loads and determine the accuracy of other scales by comparative tests.

Farnsworth said possibly 25 to 35 per cent of the vehicle scales in the state were being checked regularly now, but that he hoped the new equipment would bring the figure close to 100 per cent. The present method of testing is the use of 100-pound weights which a man can handle.

WHOLESALE PRICE AVERAGE UP 94%

STEEL PRICES UP ONLY 33%

(Figures from U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics)

AT LESS than three pennies a pound, published steel prices are almost as cheap today as they were before the war.

While other wholesale prices have risen 94 per cent since 1939 on the average, steel prices have risen only 33 per cent. Yet steel wage rates have gone up 74 per cent.

While low prices have kept steel the cheapest metal in the world, steel quality has been steadily improving—making stronger, better and longer lasting things for you to buy.

Football's 'Grand Old Man' Almost Bypassed Grid for Diamond Career

By TOM SHRIVER
AP Sports Writer

SELINSGROVE, Pa. — Amos Alonzo Stagg Sr., dean of American football coaches, was almost talked out of a grid career while attending Yale university back in the 1880's.

The veteran coach, who is now helping his son, Amos Alonzo Stagg Jr., direct the destinies of the Susquehanna university eleven, told the story himself as he sat in the living room of his son's home on the Susquehanna campus.

"It was back in 1886 that I first wanted to play football for Yale," said Stagg, "but they tried to talk me out of coming out for the team.

"You see, Yale took a great deal of interest in baseball in those days, and I was rated as one of the best of the college hurlers. So they didn't want me to take a chance on hurting my arm by playing football."

Stagg finally decided to play on the Yale eleven, and won a place as end on the All-America squad in 1889. Later he gained international fame as coach of the Chicago university eleven, then moved to the far west to bring grid fame to little College of the Pacific.

Stagg has many an interesting tale of the diamond, especially of the day he hurled for Yale against the old Philadelphia Athletics, and of a game in which he faced the Washington club, with Connie Mack catching for the D. C. nine.

"It was during that game that I was lucky enough to make a play that Mack still talks about," said Stagg as his mind wandered back 60 years. "I was on the mound and Washington had a man on second. He took a long lead, and instead of throwing the ball to the second baseman, I turned quickly and raced him for the bag, making the putout as he tried to slide back to the base."

Stagg told of the first baseball team that ever invaded Japan. It was in 1910 that he coached a University of Chicago nine, and sent them off on a trip to the Orient.

Now 84, the former "Magician of the Midway" is serving as co-coach with his son at Susquehanna. The squad is one of the smallest Stagg ever directed. Only 11 boys turned out for spring practice, but father and son are hopeful of the future.

"We have no plans to make Susquehanna a big time school in college football ranks," the elder Stagg explains. "All my son and I hope to do is to turn out good teams that play because of their love of the game."

But future opponents of the Crusaders can look forward to some tough competition when they invade Selinsgrove next fall. The two Staggs have worked out a lot of new plays for use on their rivals.

STAGG AND SON. Amos Alonzo Stagg Sr., and Jr., talk over plans for next grid campaign at Susquehanna University.

Prexy Tracksters To Run In Meet at Columbus Tomorrow

Prexy tracksters are entered in a meet with Upper Arlington and Grandview at Columbus tomorrow.

The thinclad Presidents have been running against some flashy competition this spring and the caliber of the two teams they are running against tomorrow is no comedown. Still Ralph Simpson, who is mentoring the school's track fortunes this year, says his boys are improving and will be in there trying tomorrow.

Know They're Good

He says that the boys have been aware of the fact that they have been running against some top-notchers, but it wasn't until the Ashland invitational that they learned that they can run with such competition.

Although they did not figure heavily in scoring, the local runners placed in several events in the seven school affair and that has boosted their morale considerably.

It would be rather rash for him to predict his boys will highball through the meet, but Coach Simpson expects them to give a good accounting of themselves in what will probably be their last showing of the year.

He has been assisted this season by Bill Thomas who will coach the school's gridders next fall. Bill is now known as the roaming coach, because he is still traveling over 100 miles a day to get to and from his job in Marion. He resides at Columbus but is trying to rent in Marion.

Boys On Squad

Boys who will be taken to the tri-school affair are Clarence Smith, Jerry Richie, Richard Lingrel, Dick Gherman, Gene Peadon, Rody Eyler, Jim Coss, Dick Graham, Richard Stanley, Calvin Roest Ronald Osborn, Bob Ralston, Mario Nolfi, John Moodie, Bob Short, Jack Hoffman, P. J. Menzer, Jim Bain, Fred Crowder, Fred Darling, Keith Smith, Bill Taylor, Clinton Taylor, Keith Bushatz Bob Dickason, Jack Bishop, Dave Brown, Warren Osborn, Jack Williams, Roger Andrews, Bob Bowers, Jim Harmon, Richard Corwin, Jim Hill, Don Ellis, and Richard Rhodes.

Fielder in Stands Needed When Williams Bats

American league managers had better devise a "bleacher shift" for Ted Williams.

Trick shifts and all, the Boston Red Sox slugger still is the greatest as well as the most feared batsman in baseball today.

It is doubtful if opposing teams ever ganged up on any player the way they have on Williams. Every time he strides to the plate, they start a troop movement toward the right side of the diamond.

This ruse, first used by Lou Boudreau, Cleveland Indians' manager, and adopted with great success in the last World Series by Eddie Dyer, St. Louis Cardinals pilot, undoubtedly has robbed Ted of numerous base hits.

Clutch Hitting Wicked

Despite that, the colorful flychaser, in many respects, has a .330 batting average and his devastating clutch hitting makes him the most valuable player in his circuit.

Of his league leading home run output of nine, four have come in the ninth or extra innings to turn the tide in favor of the Red Sox.

His circuit clout yesterday came with one aboard in the last of the ninth to win the nightcap from the league leading Detroit Tigers 5 to 4 after the Bengals had won the 12-inning opener 3-2.

TED WILLIAMS
Bleacher Shift Needed

In defeating the Red Sox in the opener on George Kell's 12th inning double which scored Ed Lake from first, the Tigers handed Dave (Boo) Ferris his first defeat on home grounds in two seasons.

Cubs Outslug Bums

The Chicago Cubs out-slugged the Brooklyn Dodgers 8-7 at Wrigley Field. Snapping a five game losing streak.

For the 11th consecutive game the Washington Senators failed to score more than two runs. They bowed to the Chicago White Sox 4-1. Skeeter Dickey's double with the bases loaded in the 12th accounted for the winning runs.

Catcher Del Rice and first baseman Stan Musial provided the big blows as the St. Louis Cardinals finally broke the spell left-handed pitchers have held over them by beating the Philadelphia Phils 5 to 3 at St. Louis. Rice hammered his second home run of the season off southpaw Oscar Judd with one man on in the fifth. Musial singled in two runs in the sixth and scored on a wild pitch. Howie Schultz accounted for all Philadelphia's runs with a seventh inning home run with two mates aboard.

City Softball Schedule Postponed by Showers

Rain forced postponement of scheduled games in the city softball league yesterday afternoon.

Games that were on the books were Greenwood vs. U. B. at McKinley, St. Mary 1 vs. Forest Lawn at Garfield, Epworth vs. Presbyterian at M.P.S., and St. Mary 2 vs. Trinity at Crystal.

Games have been re-set for a week from Wednesday.

REMODELING UNDER WAY AT RECREATION ALLEYS

Erect Backdrop To Deaden Noise of Crashing Pins.

Marion bowling fans will be able to follow that recreation at one of the more modern alleys in the country when plans for the improvement of Palace Recreation are completed.

A backdrop to deaden noise and obscure the pin boy is being installed. Manager Jerry Stevenson said that he believed that this would be completed about the middle of the week.

The backdrop is being constructed so the bowler will have only a view of the pins at the end of the alley and will not be able to see what is going on in the pits.

Also planned is a bar where food and refreshments will be served. The pool tables will be taken out and tables will be put in their place. Also the check room will be moved from its present position to a spot nearer the head of the stairs.

TITLE BOUT POSTPONED

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20 — Injuries to his eyes received in his scuffle with Georgie Abrams Friday night have forced welterweight king Ray Robinson to postpone his title bout with Jimmy Doyle of Los Angeles at the Cleveland arena from May 30 to June 17.

Steve Gromek Saves Game For Tribe Twice in 2 Days

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20—Steve Gromek, the erstwhile "forgotten man" of the Cleveland Indians' mound staff, had a new reputation today as the No. 1 fireman in the Redskins' wigwam.

For the second time in two days, Gromek came to the relief of Indians' hurlers yesterday and throttled the threatening New York Yankees as the Tribe copped its second straight victory over the ex-Bombers, 5 to 4.

Yankee castoff Hal Peck hommered a round tripper in the eighth to provide Cleveland's margin of victory.

Rookie Bryan Stephens contributed an acceptable bit of relief hurling to gain credit for his second victory, before Gromek came to his aid in the ninth. Knuckler Roger Wolff started the contest for Cleveland.

The Indians tallied a pair of runs in the second when Eddie Robinson was hit by a pitched ball, Joe Gordon doubled and Ken Keltner lofted a pop single. They got two more in the fifth on George Metkovich's walk, and consecutive singles by Hank Edwards, Manager Lou Boudreau and Robinson.

Homers by Charley Keller and pinch-hitter Frank Colman featured the Yankees' three-run rally in the seventh and eighth.

In 1932 Bucky Walters played third base for the Boston Braves.

Rain Lowers Curtain On Harding Baseball Show

Rain played a return engagement yesterday and the curtain was lowered on the Harding baseball show.

The Prexies had been spoiling for a tilt since they were knocked out of tourney play about a week and a half ago; but last night the game with Ashland at Harding field had to be called off.

Their final record of three wins and two loses will have to stand as it was reported from the high school this morning that uniforms were being turned in.

QUICKTURN BUYING GIVES MARKET LIFT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20—A little more short covering and quickturn buying gave the stock market a selective lift today although many leaders were indifferent and dealings well under those of preceding sessions.

Dealings slowed appreciably after a fairly active opening and extreme gains running to 2 points or so were trimmed near the fourth hour with a smattering of minus marks in evidence.

Ahead at one time or another were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Chrysler, General Motors, Boeing, J. I. Case, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Kennecott, American Smelting, Dow Chemical, Du Pont, Eastern Air Lines, American Water Works, Colgate-Palmolive, Texas Co., Skelly Oil, Continental Oil, American Woolen, Schenley, and Monsanto Chemical.

Occasional laggards were Curtiss-Wright, Douglas Aircraft, Goodyear, Woolworth, Allied Chemical and Owens-Illinois. N. Y. and Harlem common, "blue chip" of the carriers, dropped 25 points at 250 on 10 shares, first sale since April 28.

Kenny Delmar, the vocally effervescent Senator Claghorn of NBC's "Fred Allen Show," has been awarded a "Doctor of Lampoonery" degree by the editors of Harvard's "Lampoon." Kenny was highly surprised when he found the sheepskin had a live sheep in it. They handed him a wriggly, unshorn lamb at the last minute . . . Incidentally, Delmar is keynoting the transcribed series of U. S. Savings Bond programs for nation-wide radio promotion of the 1947 Treasury campaign.

Appearing with Bill Stern on NBC's Sports Newsreel the day before the Kentucky Derby, Eddie Bracken predicted a photo finish the next day's between Jet Pilot and Phalanx. Now bookies are pressing him for the source of his information, for he was as right as could be, with J. P. taking the top money and Phalanx so close that it took the cameras to decide the outcome.

Mrs. Scott, a graduate of the Marion Business college, has been employed at the Acheson general store in Roundhead for the last five years. Mr. Scott is a veteran of four years' service with the ground forces of the Army Air Corps, with 28 months of that time in the South Pacific. He is engaged in farming.

Guests at the wedding besides the bridegroom's parents were Mrs. May Mertz, aunt of the bride with whom she made her home, Mrs. Charles Elkjer and Mrs. Caroline Scullin.

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Caroline Smith of Waldo and Robert Seiter of Pleasant township, both of whom served in World War II. The single ring ceremony was read Saturday evening at 8 in the parsonage o fthe Marion rural Lutheran parish by Rev. Wilbur S. Budke, pastor. The couple was unattended.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elza C. Smith of Waldo, the bride served 28 months in the Army Air force at Tampa, Fla. She is a graduate of Waldo High school. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Seiter of Pleasant township, was three years in the infantry and was stationed in New Guinea. He attended Pleasant Township schools and is now engaged in farming.

For the ceremony, the bride was attired in a light blue dress with which she combined white accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of red roses.

Sunday evening, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents. The table from which refreshments were served was centered with a wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Guests with the newly married couple and their parents were Rev. Budke, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lichtenberger, Mr. and Mrs. George Leffler, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Seiter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Seiter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ruth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Flach and family, and Mrs. McAllister.

In Re: The Christian Church of Marion, Ohio.

Notice is hereby given that The Christian Church of Marion, Ohio has filed its petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Marion County, Ohio, being Case No. 19119, praying for authority to sell the following described real estate:

Situated in the County of Marion, State of Ohio, and in the City of Marion, described as follows:

Being Lot Number Nineteen Hundred and ninety (1990) in John J. Hana's First Addition to the City of Marion, Ohio.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I GAVE Mary a quick, appraising look, and decided that I would keep my hands grasping hers for a few seconds longer, despite her apparent flippancy.

Beneath her carelessness she was as taut as the proverbial fiddle string, and her query: "What's my program for today?" was on a note decidedly off key.

So I was not surprised when she suddenly twisted her hands from mine, turned herself prone on her bed, and began to sob wildly, clutching at her pillows as if she were going to tear them into shreds.

"Oh!" she moaned. "Why do you thwart me this way? I'm all washed up! I'm no use to myself or anybody else! Why do you want to keep alive such a worthless creature as I am?"

From somewhere—I don't know how I did it—I managed to pump up a scornful, amused little laugh, and when Mary, in sheer astonishment, stopped sobbing and rolled over, fairly glaring at me, I felt a tiny thrill of triumph. At least I temporarily had changed her mood from despair to anger, and I prepared to follow the line of merciless ridicule.

"Don't you think you had better stop melodramatizing yourself and let us get down to what your uncle calls 'brass tacks'?" I asked. "Now I want you to answer some questions, and I expect truthful answers to them."

I was using exactly the tone, I told myself with grim amusement, that I used to employ to Junior and Roderick when they were small boys and guilty of some particular annoying piece of mischief. But Mary was not in an adult mood, and I was staking much on her reaction to the cat-of-nine-tails I was using.

"First," I began, "is anybody blackmailing you for something you've done, or you're believed to have done?"

She gasped and sat up.

"Auntie Madge!" she babbled. "Are you crazy?"

"Answer my question without quibbling," I said sternly. "Are you being blackmailed?"

"No!" she almost shouted.

"All right, I'll take your word for it," I said coolly. "Now, Number two. By any chance, did you get into a rage back there at the sanatarium and kill somebody—without meaning it, of course—and did you hide the body somewhere?"

It took some effort to keep my face straight at that one, and I was thankful that I had closed the door between the sitting room and the bedroom as I went through it. I did not believe that Dicky could have repressed a guffaw.

Absurd Question

But I looked sternly at her as I put the absurd question, and Mary's face was a study of terrified bewilderment.

"I—I'm going to call Uncle Dicky," she quavered. "I think you really have gone out of your mind. If you were joking, your lips would quirk a tiny bit, but you're as sober as if you were a judge wearing a black cap. I—I'm scared!"

"I am not joking, and I am perfectly sane," I told her. "Answer the question, please, truthfully. 'Yes' or 'No'?"

She gulped, swallowed and got out a faltering "No."

"Number three," I went on inexorably. "Has anybody told you stories about Noel's behavior? Stories so plausible that you have believed them, and the knowledge has thrown you into your present state."

Her eyes were fairly snapping with anger now, and her cheeks were flaunting color.

Lying Mouths

"I'd just like to see anybody try to tell me stories about Noel!" she declared. "I'd cram the lies right back into their lying mouths and watch 'em choke to death!"

Then her eyes narrowed, and she looked intently at me.

"What's the reason for all this rigamarole?" she asked. "I didn't know you were writing soap operas."

"I'm not," I said shortly, "and I am in deadly earnest. If you have none of these really serious reasons for your ridiculous behavior, then I can see nothing to do for you except to turn you over to a psychiatrist and an institution for the cure of neurotics."

I had flicked her on the raw now, and I hoped her reactions would be that of healthy anger.

For an instant she held her head high, and fairly glared at me. Then to my horror she buried her face in her pillows again.

"I never thought you'd give me up!" she wailed.
